

An aerial photograph of a historic town, likely Teramo, Italy. The town is built on a hillside, with a prominent stone wall running across the middle ground. In the foreground, there is a large, light-colored building complex, possibly a former psychiatric hospital, with a parking lot and some trees. The background shows a dense cluster of traditional stone buildings with tiled roofs.

DE

LA RINASCITA DI UN PATRIMONIO

a cura di Emilio Corsaro

Da ospedale psichiatrico a Cittadella della cultura

Teramo, 1978-1998-2018